What limitations have others placed upon you in the past (or now)? Are you overcoming them? If your answer is yes, how have you / did you overcome them? If no, what is it about their limitations that are stopping you?

When I face a challenge, do I rely on my faith (who God says I am, what God says I can do) or do I rely on my ability and experience?

Read: Exodus 3:7-15, 4:1-12

Sometimes the limitations we experience are not one's placed on us by others but placed on us by ourselves. In this portion of scripture, Moses places many limitations upon himself and doesn't believe he is capable of doing what God asks of him. In what ways have you placed limitations upon yourself or has a negative self-image kept you from pursuing what God has for you?

How does God respond to Moses' excuses and limitations? How does He encourage and remind Moses of His GREAT power?

How does being reminded of and believing in God's abundance of power and wisdom help us overcome the limitations that get placed on us by others or ourselves? How can you use God's provision and movement in your past to propel you into the unknown and seemingly impossible future?

In what area of your life right now are you saying "no" when you need to be saying "yes" to his "GO!"
